WHERE: Howalt+McDowell Conference Center -- 300 N. Cherapa on 3rd Floor, in Sioux Falls, South Dakota

TITLE: What to Report & When: OSHA and Work Comp

Description: Is it a workers compensation claim? Is it an OSHA reportable or just an OSHA Recordable Injury? When do you have to contact someone and who is the entity to be contacted? And how soon do you have to report it? Are there differences in reporting requirements? Learn the answers to all of these questions and know what information is required for each type of reporting.

SPEAKERS:

Sheila Stanley - is the Area Director of OSHA's newest area office. She came here from Denver, Colorado in December of 2015, and has worked diligently with her staff of 3 investigators and an Assistant Area Director to provide excellent OSHA services including enforcement and outreach to employers throughout the state of South Dakota. She is an industrial hygienist and worked as the Region VIII State Plan Manager in Denver, as well as an Assistant Area Director and Compliance Officer in OSHA's Englewood Area Office in Colorado. If you asked her what she is most proud of with regard to her work, she would tell you "Opening the OSHA office in South Dakota, and working with her Assistant Area Director to recruit, train and develop the hard-working, smart and diligent OSHA Compliance Officers in South Dakota".

Kyle Broesder - Senior Safety & Compliance Consultant with Howalt+McDowell Insurance is an insurance leader with years of occupational safety and loss control experience.
