Construction Trades

Workforce Connection

This year CIC will be supporting the CTWC. Construction Trades Workforce Connection is the joint effort of more than a dozen local Companies, Organizations and Non-Profits in the Black Hills Area united by one goal – Make the Trades Plan A. Our mission is simple, we work to introduce high school students across the Black Hills to careers in the construction trades. One of our most impactful efforts has been our annual Field Day program. This three-day, hands-on event brings students face-to-face with the trades in a way that a traditional career fair simply can't. They're not just hearing about opportunities - they're trying them, building them, and experiencing what a future in construction could actually feel like. We also directly support educators by fulfilling classroom wish lists for tools and materials - helping teachers create better, more engaging learning environments. We are working to raise awareness at a broader level through professionally produced videos to slowly start moving the needle on public perception and build pride within the construction industry.
